1. What is this product?

Type

An Over the Counter (OTC) derivative contract – Purchase of a Forward Rate Agreement

Objectives

Forward Rate Agreements are used for managing interest rate risks.

A Purchase of a Forward Rate Agreement (FRA) is an agreement between two contracting parties (client/UniCredit Bank Czech Republic and Slovakia, a.s.), where you, as the buyer of the FRA, receive a compensation payment for a single interest period (e.g. 3 months), if the reference rate (e.g. EURIBOR) exceeds the contractually agreed FRA rate on the interest-fixing date. If the reference rate falls below the contractually agreed FRA rate on the interest-fixing date you have to pay a compensation payment. The amount of such compensation payment is calculated as difference between the reference rate and the FRA rate, based on the notional amount. Any interest rate with applicable periods (e.g. 3 month EURIBOR) can be selected as the reference rate. The interest-fixing occurs two banking days before the contractually agreed settlement date.

The compensation payment is paid at the settlement date. As the settlement date of the FRA is set at the beginning of the single interest period, the compensation payment is paid in discounted form.

The notional amount of the Forward Rate Agreement serves merely to calculate the respective compensation payment. There is no amount payable/receivable equal to the notional amount.

You can enter into this product also in a foreign currency.

Sample product terms are set out below and are based on legally predefined or realistic assumptions and may not match your specific contract details.

2. What are the risks and what could I get in return?

Risk Indicator

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you.

We have classified this product as 7 out of 7, which is the highest risk class.

Be aware of currency risk. You may pay and/or receive payments in a different currency, so the final return you will get depends on the exchange rate between the two currencies. This risk is not considered in the indicator shown above.

In some circumstances you may be required to make payments to pay for losses. The total loss you may incur may be significant.

This product does not include any protection from future market performance so you could incur significant losses.

The scenarios presented are an estimate of future performance based on evidence from the past on how the value of this investment varies, and are not an exact indicator. What you get or pay will vary depending on how the market performs and how long you keep the product.

The stress scenario shows what you might get back or pay in extreme market circumstances, and it does not take into account the situation where we are not able to pay you.

The figures shown include all the costs of the product itself, but may not include all the costs that you pay to your advisor or distributor. The figures do not take into account your personal tax situation, which may also affect how much you get back or pay.

3. What happens if UniCredit Bank Czech Republic and Slovakia, a.s. is unable to pay out?

Counterparties of derivative transactions are exposed to the risk that UniCredit Bank Czech Republic and Slovakia, a.s. becomes unable to discharge its obligations under the transaction, for example in the case of an insolvency (inability to pay or overindebtedness) or in the case resolution measures are taken by an authority against the credit institution. Such a decision to take resolution measures can, for example, be taken if the assets of the institution are less than its liabilities, where it is unable or will, in the near future, be unable to pay its debts or other liabilities as they fall due, or where it requires extraordinary public financial support. Where resolution measures are taken, the competent resolution authority can decide on an early termination of the derivative transaction. In the case such early termination results in a claim of the counterparty against the credit institution, the decision of the resolution authority can lead to a partial or complete reduction of the principal amount of this claim or in a conversion of this claim in to equity (shares or other types of equity).

If UniCredit Bank Czech Republic and Slovakia, a.s. does not fulfil its obligations connected with the product or is unable to pay, you can lose part of or the full payout or can suffer an unlimited loss. This product is not protected by any deposit guarantee scheme, legal or otherwise, or any other type of guarantee.
